

Writer-actor Curt Cloninger explores what it would be like to spend an hour with Jesus, listening to him tell stories and answer questions. Curt presents Jesus as an earthy, real person that makes some incredible claims, offending some while attracting others. He uses three contemporary settings: inside a church, as he dresses down the religious people; at a picnic, where he tells stories to eager listeners; and at a final dinner with his friends.

This DVD is great for group discussions!
